Jürgen Säuberlich on his approach and motivation

„For me, working with our clients at the BPO Beratergruppe has always meant an approach which focuses on feasible solutions and practical implementation and that makes efficient use of resources. In my work I adopt a holistic view of consulting, qualifications and transfer support, but I also always maintain a focus on real business conditions. As a consultant, I aim to always remain connected both to the specific circumstances of each individual corporation and to the people who work there. Even after many years working as a coach and as a facilitator, in every new project I still look forward to providing others with new perspectives. Therefore each new project is a challenge which I meet energetically and with great pleasure.”

Jürgen Säuberlich, was born in 1944, has a degree in economics and is a qualified systemic consultant. He is a founding member of the BPO Beratergruppe. He lives in Stuttgart, is married and has two daughters. Jürgen Säuberlich is specialised in the automotive, ceramics, health and construction industries.
